BLAINE AT HOME.

The Republican Candidate Attends a Political Gathering.

Two Hundred Passenger Agents Meet in Denver.

The Cashier of the Suspended New York Bank Missing.

Blaine in Maine

LAKE MANANGOG, Me., August 12.—A special train arrived at 11 15 to-day, bringing J. G Blaine, Governor Robie, Congressman Dingley, Collector Dowe, Governor Hale, Senators Frye and Hale and others R R Pullfer, Wm Osgood, F Crawford, of Chicago Tribune, E. A Storrs, General Gibson, E Moody Boynton and others, were also with the party. As Blaine stepped on the platform he was received with tremendous applause which continued until he reached the main stand.

Loud calls were made for Blaine and as he came forward voices shouted 'Three cheers for the next president of the United States" and they were heartily given Blaine said: My friends, I came here to-day not to speak but to hear I have been too long accustomed to attend every political gathering in Kennebec county to miss this one [laughter], and so I came from old habit just to see if they were held as well as they were in old days when I so often pressed upon you for your suffrage, an exaction which I can say with candor I never had any expectation of again laying upon you but I am once more before the people of Maine, a people in whom I have never trusted in vain. [A voice: "God bless you," and applause.] I am delighting you by these simple words from the enjoyment of hearing a great orator from the west I am anxious for the treat as you are and I yield the platform to him

Passenger Agents at Denver.

DENVER, August 12. The members of the International Association of Traveling Passenger Agents, to the number of about 200, accompanied, in many instances, by their families, arrived in town last evening and this morning Most of the important trunk lines of the country are represented. At 10 o'clock this morning the association held a secret meeting in the city hall, at which about thirty new members were elected. The afternoon meeting was called to order by Mr. Shattuck. Mr. D. L. Sturgis was introduced, who welcomed the agents to Denver and Colorado in a very pleasant speech in which he announced the programme of entertainment by the local association and the citizens of this and other cities to be visited by the agents on their proposed excursion, which included an invitation from the Athletic club, of Leadville, to a ball to be given in their honor on one of the two evenings the excursionists will spend in that city. The invitation was accepted Mr. James Welch, of Cincinnati, president of the association, responded to the address of welcome. The speeches of Mr. Sturgis and Mr. Welch were received with hearty applause. Wolfe Londoner followed in a ten minutes speech delivered in his usual style. Capt. T. D May, the oldest traveling passenger agent in the association, was called upon and delivered the jolliest speech of the meeting, convulsing the audience with laughter by every sentence. The orator of the day, Mr. James S. Reed, general passenger agent of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy, at Chicago, was introduced. His address was an able one, and was listened to with marked attention. He gave an interesting review and history of the association from its inception at Buffalo in 1873, to the present time. Mr. Reed earnestly recommended that some action be taken by the association looking to the restoration and maintenance of tariff rates. Short speeches were made by Mr. S. K. Hooper, general passenger agent of the D & R. G., and Mr. George Ady of the Union Pacific. The meeting adjourned until to morrow, when the election of officers will take place.

The Wall Street Bank Failure

NEW YORK, August 12. President Evans, of the Wall Street bank, states that additional investigation satisfies him and the directors that the amount of loss will fall short of the capital and depositors will be speedily paid in full.

Notice was posted at the Wall Street bank this morning announcing that all checks of Ogden & Co will be paid on presentation at the First National bank. A rumor was current at the opening of business that the absent cashier, Dickinson, had been arrested, but it proved unfounded It is now asserted that Dickinson was using bank funds in private ventures in grain and stocks. His margins, however, were small, but he averted suspicion by putting small sums to his credit in a large number of offices It is thought his latest purchases when closed will show a profit, as the market advanced after they were made.

Bank examiners are at work on the Wall Street bank's affairs, footing up the losses sustained by Dickinson's speculations. It is rumored on the street that stockholders will not be paid 25 per cent. and the defalcation is larger than stated. Vice President Thompson states that stockholders will be paid 50 per cent. and depositors in full. Reliable authority says the deficit will not be over $250,000. Rumors on the street, however, put the defalcation at half a million. Dickinson was not at his house this morning. The general belief is that he is in Canada.

— Directors of the Wall Street bank have decided to wind up and a receiver be appointed this afternoon

Missouri Democratic Convention

ST. LOUIS, August 12.—A Jefferson City special to the Post-Dispatch says Chairman O'Day, of the central committee, called the state democratic convention to order at 11 o'clock. G I Rockwell, of Randolph county, was made temporary chairman. After naming committees, the convention took a recess

The convention reassembled at 3 30, but the committee on credentials not being ready to report, Congressman Dockery, by invitation, made a speech to fill in the time The committee on resolutions was also still in session, there being a contest over the tariff question, the national plank on that subject meeting with opposition

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo, August 12 The afternoon session was devoted to oratory and at 5 o'clock the convention adjourned till 7. At 7 o'clock, on re-assembling, the convention organized by electing ex Governor Chas H Hardin permanent chairman The committee on platform reported resolutions which were adopted without discussion They declare that the democratic party of Missouri pledges earnest support to Gov. Cleveland and Thos A. Hendricks, the nominees for president and vice president of the United States, endorse the economical administration of affairs by the present state government, and point with pride to the record of the democratic party of Missouri in the state government, reiterates the intense hostility of the party to monopolists and declares it is their purpose of battling for the masses—in their struggle for supremacy. The nomination for governor was then made. General John S Marmaduke was nominated on the first ballot by a vote of 832 to 61 for four other candidates.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo, August 12 —Three ballots were taken for lieutenant governor without choice and the convention adjourned till to-morrow.

The Republican Party Good Enough

COLUMBUS, Kans, August 12.—J. P Perkins, member of the national committee of the prohibition party for this state, enters his protest against the call for a state prohibition convention in Kansas in a card to the prohibitionists, saying such a call was made without consultation with him and his name signed thereto without his knowledge or consent; considering such a call ill advised, and calculated to do the cause of prohibition injury in Kansas, as being in effect an aid to the democracy against the republican party, the party that has fostered and encouraged good government in Kansas

Organized for Work

NEW YORK, August 12.—The executive committee of the democratic state committee elected William E Smith, chairman It is said at headquarters that E D. Cooper had never been elected chairman, his name merely having been suggested in connection with it. When this suggestion had been conveyed to Cooper, he at once declined on account of ill health. The committee yesterday organized for the first time Mr. Cooper was present at the meeting, and on his motion Mr. Smith, who is a warm, personal friend of Governor Cleveland, was elected.

Opposed to Political Discussion.

UTICA, August 12 —The state labor convention to-day in the adoption of resolutions avoided political questions and attempts to introduce them were crushed out severely.

—BOSTON, August 12.—The advance guard of the Irish national convention delegates began to appear here this morning. They seem to be unanimously in favor of the exclusion of all discussion of American politics from the convention.

Prohibition in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 12.—A meeting of the executive committee of the prohibition state committee was held here to-day, and it was decided to put an electoral ticket in the field. The ticket is not yet named, and members of the party will not be pledged to its support. The naming of the electoral ticket is simply to enable such prohibitionists as so desire to vote for St. John

Nominated for Congress

CHATTANOOGA, August 12 General Joe Wheeler was nominated for congress by the democrats of the Eighth Alabama district. This is the famous "Fighting Joe."

The Kelung Affair.

PARIS, August 12.—The Voltaire gives the following account of fresh operations in China: Admiral Lespes blockaded Kelung August 5th. The Chinese attempted to repel him with a battery of Krupp canon. The French thereupon opened fire and silenced the battery without casualty. A company then landed and spiked the guns In this operation one man was killed and two wounded Admiral Lespes remains at anchor before Kelung to prevent Chinese vessels coaling. Admiral Courbet stays at Foo Chow to support Paternotre's demands. A detachment of the squadron remains off Woo Lung, ten miles north of Shanghai.

LONDON, August 21 —A Times dispatch from Pekin of the 11th says: The Tsung li Yamen protested to the powers against the operations of the French fleet at Kelung.

Trade in Japan.

GLASGOW, August 12 —In the Glasgow chamber of commerce to-day the secretary announced that he had forwarded to Earl Granville, secretary of foreign affairs, a petition of directors of the chamber advocating changes in the treaty with Japan of 1858. The petition urges relaxation of the strict terms of the treaty in favor of Japan. The directors understand that Japan desires immediate modification of separate jurisdiction at the five treaty points. If this is granted, Japan offers to throw open the entire country and remove all restrictions upon foreign residence, travel and trade.

The Cholera Scourge.

TOULON, August 12—No deaths from cholera here last night, although many persons are under treatment.

ROME, August 12.—Five fresh cases of cholera at Castle Neuva, one fatal Two fresh cases at Sebergo, one fatal, one fresh case at Pancaleiri and one death at Odassalo.

Extraordinary Wrestling.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 12 —The wrestling match between Deimas, the French champion, and Tom Cannon, which commenced at 9 o'clock last evening, was only terminated at 4 this morning. They wrestled for three hours on the third round, when the referee decided it a draw.

THE LAST RESORT.

A Published Story Says the Arctic Survivors Ate Dead Bodies,

And Even Shot a Companion and Devoured Him.

Statements and Opinions Obtained by Interviews.

A Horrible Story

WASHINGTON, August 13 —A horrible story was published in the New York Times this morning that the survivors of the Greeley party, crazed by starvation and cold, fed on the dead bodies of their comrades, and that written documents in the possession of the navy department substantiate the terrible narrative It created a great sensation here, and Admiral Nicholls, acting secretary of the navy, was shortly interviewed by newspaper men—anxious to ascertain something official concerning the publication. The admiral said positively that there was nothing in the navy department confirming the story, and he doubted its truth. —It is possible however that a report of this nature may have gone direct to Secretary Chandler in New Hampshire, as numerous documents are forwarded him without examination. Some persons express the opinion quietly that there is something in the story, and say it is beginning to be known that the Greeley party was not as harmonious as has been generally supposed and that there is a story connected with the expedition which it was intended to conceal, but must now come out in the same way the history of the Jeannette's unfortunate cruise came to the knowledge of the public.

The Times story was shown General Hazen, who at first was very non-committal, but finally with decided emphasis he said "There are certain facts connected with the matter I am not at liberty to mention" It is very probable, though I do not say so officially, they will be made the subject of congressional investigation next winter. The story contains some inaccuracies, notably that in which reference is made to devouring amputated limbs of those who suffered the loss of legs and arms in order to preserve their lives." General Hazen was asked what truth there was in the statement that young Henry had been shot and his body eaten. "That is a subject," he replied, "upon which I must decline to be interviewed"

So the report that Captain Schley called you and Secretary Chandler into his vessel's cabin and informed you that the survivors had eaten their associates is false? was asked.

That story is untrue.

There is no truth then in the remainder of the published stories that bodies were eaten?

I will not say they are not true. I have but casually glanced at the published story other than at those portions which I deny.

Did you hear any rumors while at Ports mouth that dead men had been eaten?

There were rumors of that kind afloat My official position would not permit me to give the facts in the case.

There are facts then?

I cannot answer that I had a long interview with Lieut. Greeley, but the subject of eating bodies was not referred to. I can imagine a case when cannibalism would be justified, and it would be a case where men are starving.

Do you excuse cannibalism in the Greeley case?

Under the circumstances it would have been excusable.

Has Secretary Chandler received any report relative to this subject?

Not that I know of I have received none.

Is the report that Private Henry was shot and afterwards eaten, false?

There were rumors at Portsmouth that he had been killed and the survivors had eaten the body, but I decline to give any facts in his case I might know of

Will the shooting be the subject of investigation by the war department?

Not necessarily Men are shot every day as mutineers, and no investigation made Under some circumstances it might be proper.

Will there be any investigation of the reported eating of bodies?

An investigation could not be made either by the war or navy department. That is a matter that congress will have to look into. Then all the facts will be presented, and until that nothing will be given out.

General Hazen says Lieutenant Greeley's report on the expedition will probably be forwarded to him within a month.

While it was generally conceded that there were no records in Washington that would substantiate the story, both army and navy officers among themselves did not view it as an impossibility by any means Said a naval officer in the corridor of the navy department "While there is no reason that I know of for believing the story, the fact that there are no records to substantiate it does not disprove it at all."

Look at it as true, is there anything improbable about it?

You and I standing here with all comforts about us, look upon such a matter with dread and horror. But you must remember those men were reduced to such a condition their moral faculties were blunted. They should not be considered, in fact, responsible agents Self-preservation was their only thought, and they could not be expected to moralize upon it.

PORTSMOUTH, August 13 —Secretary Chandler returned here to-day, and to-night an associated press agent visited him on the Talapoosa to enquire concerning the truth of the article in to-day's New York Times. The secretary appeared to be considerably agitated. "You may say that I have seen the New York Times and that the navy department has received no such reports of the shooting of Henry and cannibalism as the Times gives Of course, you naturally ask me 'Is the story true?' I decline to say. I refuse to say anything further about the matter."

LINCOLN, Neb, August 12.—Much interest is excited here by the publication of a story of Henry being killed and eaten by the Greeley party Henry's real name was Buck. His sister and other friends in this city will push the investigation

Arctic Dead

ANNAPOLIS, August 13 —The funeral services of Lieutenant Lockwood were held here to-day After religious rites at the grave, a firing party gave a soldier's farewell

INDIANAPOLIS, August 12 —The remains of William Whistler, late member of the Greeley Arctic exploring party, were interred to day near Delphi, Carroll county Governor Potter and staff were present

The Markets

NEW YORK, August 12 —Money easy, ½ to 1, closing ½, prime paper 5½ to 6½, sterling exchange steady, 4 85's, demand 4 81, governments firm for 6's, 4½s and easier for 4s, railways strong and higher, state securities dull Speculation in the stock exchange was quiet and strong The fact that there were no failures on account of the suspension of the Wall Street bank, as predicted by the bears, had much to do with the strength of the market. Favorable reports from the west concerning crops and the movement of new grains also induced purchases for long account. At the opening a majority of active shares were higher, but before the first call a reaction set in and the improvement was partially lost Subsequently western orders to buy made their appearance and there was an advance to 1½ per cent. Near 2 o'clock moderate selling movement set in and there was a decline of ½ to 1¾, Lackawanna, Northwestern, Missouri Pacific and New York Central being most prominent in the downward movement. In final transactions there was a fractional recovery The market was very quiet, transfers being only 204,127 shares, the smallest total for some weeks' past. There was little if any excitement, and the tameness of speculation was the subject of much comment in the face of yesterday's bank failure. Compared with last night closing prices are ½ to 1¾ per cent higher, except for Jersey Central, which is 3 per cent. lower.

The mining market was somewhat more active. Sales included Amie 6, Consolidated Virginia 32 to 33, Belle Isle 60, California 16, Horn Silver 5 50, Rappahanock 16, Sutro Tunnel 19, Green Mountain 1 85, Consolidated Pacific at 55, Oriental and Miller at 12, and Robinson at 30

A Missing Englishman.

LONDON, August 12 —The case of Sheldon, the Englishman alleged to have been kidnapped in Missouri and to be held for a ransom, was brought up in the commons to-day. Arthur Arnold liberal for Salford, made it a subject of inquiry. The under foreign secretary stated that the last dispatch from the British minister was on August 6. It brought the intelligence that all efforts made up to that time to discover Sheldon had proved futile. The search, however, would be vigorously prosecuted. Arnold said a brother of the missing man had received letters from friends in Missouri which asserted that the authorities were making no efforts to find him. The secretary replied that it was contrary to information the government had He asked to see the letters, and promised to pay every attention to the matter.

Casey's Story

LONDON August 1 —The Press urges rigid inquiry into the truth or falsity of Informer Casey's statement that Myles, Joyce and others convicted of complicity in the Maamtrasna murders were innocent and that he was compelled to testify against them by Crown Solicitor Bolton

DUBLIN, August 13 —Bolton asserts that Informer Casey volunteered his evidence. The solicitor says he refused to accept it without authority from his superiors, and subsequently notified Casey that the government accepted his evidence. Casey did not give his testimony to Bolton nor in Bolton's presence.

Work of the Versailles Congress

PARIS, August 12 —The congress of Versailles to-day rejected an amendment abolishing the presidency and an amendment enacting that the president be elected by universal suffrage. By a vote of 483 to 212 it rejected an amendment abolishing the senate. It also rejected an amendment forbidding princes of former dynasties from residing in French territory and confiscating their property.

Three Children Burned to Death.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, August 13 —Three children on a farm near South Ferry, Ohio, named Robert Wood, Louie D Wood and Kate Shaw all under ten years of age, were burned to death in a barn, having gone there to smoke, and in so doing set the building on fire

GLENWOOD SPRINGS.

A Description of Colorado's New Sanitarium.

Comparisons with the Hot Springs of Arkansas.

Some of the Wonderful Cures Effected There.

We have received a pamphlet containing a full and interesting description of Glenwood Springs, Garfield county, Colorado, about which much is now being said and written We extract as follows

Glenwood Springs, the county seat of Garfield county, is located at the forks of the Grand river or, more properly, at the junction of the Grand river proper and the branch thereof known as the Roaring Fork. At the junction lies a beautiful valley wherein is located the town, whilst just above it is the Grand canon of the Grand river, wonderful beyond description in its weird grandeur and startling scenery, vying in its solemn and awe inspiring panoramic views, with the better known and more dilated upon Grand canon of the Arkansas, and the Black canon of the Gunnison "The Gorge of the Grand," as the frontiersmen term the canon, is about eight miles in length, and its passage cannot fail to strike the traveler with awe and a sense of his own insignificance Its towering mountain sides, with their overhanging cliffs and beetling brows, its perpendicular palisades rising flat and straight to a height of 3,000 feet above the dashing, foaming waters at their base, rendering black the pure element as, in its bed, upon which the sun never shines, it surges and sings on its way to the great Pacific.

With a sense of relief the traveler emerging from its mouth looks with delight upon the beautiful site whereon is to grow the town of Glenwood Springs. The valley wherein it lies is about three miles long and one mile wide and at that point are situated the hot springs, destined, no doubt, to render famous the town, its projectors and builders, and become, as years roll by, as well or better known than the world renowned Hot Springs of Arkansas, whose rival in volume they are, and which they exceed in variety of waters. Though but recently visited and tested by white men, these springs have for years been known to the Indians, who regard them as the sovereign panacea for all the ills to which human flesh is heir, and who, by tradition, have handed down most wonderful mention of the efficacy of the waters The Utes claimed that the principal reason for objecting to leave their old reservation for their new home in Uintah, was that they would have to abandon those health giving fountains and their curative "pools of Siloam."

Since the begin of the Utes the springs have become known to the miners, who early sought the locality on the hunt for precious metals. So wonderfully did the curative properties of the springs assert themselves, that soon their fame became more than local, and although there was no road, other than an almost impassable mountain trail, until late in the summer of 1882, there were fully 2,000 persons who visited them during that season, a more than sufficient number to test the medicinal properties of the waters.

Some of the stories told of the cures effected by their use seem fabulous and incomprehensible. Several cases of blood poisoning, of many years standing, were cured, and a number of persons who had failed to receive benefit from the Hot Springs of Arkansas, for their various ailments, here found relief and a permanent cure. Scores of these healed invalids have left their written testimony as to the facts stated, while they remain living witnesses of the exceeding worth and value of the waters as a curative agent. Notably may be mentioned the fact of cases of rheumatism which had to be carried to the springs on litters—unable to stand or walk—and which were, after a week or two weeks' use of the waters, made whole and able to walk with ease. These cases are of record and may easily be verified. In cases of catarrh relief has been found in a few hours after arrival, and two or three days' use of the waters have effected thorough cures. In cutaneous diseases the waters have been found to have most wonderful effect, as also in the worst cases of scrofulous and venereal diseases. Strangest of all in a number of instances the waters have suffered to produce a good growth of hair upon heads previously quite bald. In this particular, at least, the springs may justly be regarded as unique.

The water of these springs—which number about one hundred—is not found at boiling point, varying in the different springs from 130° to 150° Fahrenheit, and the ebullition which gains them their name seems to be caused rather by the escape of gases than by the heat of the waters.

Iron, salt and sulphur are strongly perceptible to the taste, while a sulphurous odor is emitted which is apparent to the sense of smell some distance from the springs. In damp or cold weather a perfect cloud of steam arises which can be seen for miles away.

When cold the waters have a very strong mineral taste rather agreeable than otherwise. It may be drank freely either hot or cold—without unpleasant effect, on the contrary, it acts as a tonic, sharpening the appetite and giving a general tone to the system. Another singular feature of these waters may be mentioned, viz. that a bath may be taken therein in mid winter, in the open air, with out danger of taking cold, so invigorating are the effects. The large amount of saline matter they contain is of a somewhat complex composition and such as gives them a character unlike that of any known springs. Although they are somewhat varied in temperature, and also in mineral matter, still the general composition is the same To make a rude comparison, they may be likened to a mixture of Congress and Blue Lick waters heated to 140° or 150°, remarking, however, that the mineral taste is decidedly stronger.

As heretofore stated the springs at Glenwood number over one hundred. These throw forth a volume of hot water three times as large as the streams of the Hot Springs of Arkansas combined One of the springs alone supplies from its overflow a creek or stream of water which runs fully forty feet wide and from ten to twelve inches deep, eventually forming a lake of hot mineral water four to six feet deep, from one to two hundred feet wide and six hundred feet long, thus furnishing a bathing pool four times as large as that at the Arkansas resort

The mineral deposit from the waters is copious and is generally in color a clear white

In making this notice of the hot springs our description is necessarily of a general character Thorough and complete analyses are being made of the waters and will soon be put before the public.

Among the many wonderful and curious phenomena of the locality of the town of Glenwood Springs, we may mention here the existence of a number of large caves above the town wherein are situated boiling springs, which rise within the caves some distance from their mouth and flow through them to the surface, causing an interminable cloud of vapor constantly. Indian tradition gives it that the savages used these caves as "ready made" vapor baths a statement that seems feasible inasmuch as they are to-day favorite resorts for rheumatic invalids, who claim that this natural vapor bath is even more efficacious than the hot plunge of the lower springs.

These natural vapors are said to be exceedingly effective in the cure of catarrh by inhalation To speak mildly these caves and boiling springs are wonderful beyond comprehension, and when properly cleaned and explored to their full extent may develop qualities and results as yet undreamt of.

Having endeavored humbly to give the lover of the grand and beautiful in nature, as also the invalid seeking relief from pain and disease, some idea of the wonderful resources of Glenwood Springs, we will now devote a page to the edification of those who, in traveling for pleasure are for a sojourn, desire to find recreation in field sports. To such we would say: The country immediately surrounding the town is a paradise. Deer, elk and bear abound on every side. Mountain sheep are frequently found as well as other desirable game. Think of it, ye votaries of sport! It is not an uncommon thing for a hunter in this region to kill from six to fifteen deer in a day's hunt. It has been done this season, and yet "the woods are full of 'em" For the benefit of the disciples of Izaak Walton, we would state that a few miles to the north of Glenwood Springs is a country covered with beautiful lakes and parks. The brooks and other streams in the surroundings of the town are full of trout, and are even now a favorite resort for the angler. The most prominent of these streams is the famous Trappers' lake, from which two men recently took 500 pounds of trout in a day's angling.

The streams mentioned are also the winter resort for ducks, wild geese and other water fowl; and here, in the enjoyment of rare sport of varied character, the lover of such excitement may rejoice in having found one of the most desirable spots on earth.

With an inexhaustible supply of good coking coal—with untold tons of the purest anthracite coal—with mountains of fine iron ores which have been proven by competent test to contain sixty per cent of metallic iron, free from phosphorus, sulphur and other minerals objectionable to the successful treatment of this useful metal—with these resources in sight what can prevent a favorable future for the new town? But there are other good points. There is, and ape, not another place within the confines of the state of Colorado where so many rivers and small streams flow to one common center, as at Glenwood Springs streams whose banks are lined with mines and mining camps all tributary to this town as a point for merchandise and all kinds of supplies, as well as the gathering place for the product of the mines. Eligible sites for smelters, stamp mills and other reduction works are to be found in abundance, and but a short time must elapse before these industries will have begun.

Glenwood Springs has also natural advantages as an agricultural center. It is located in the midst of a vast agricultural and stock growing region, there being over 6,000 square miles in the county, and over one million of acres of arable land. There are immense pine forests of virgin timber close by, and within the county (Garfield) are thousands of acres of mineral land unclaimed and comparatively unexplored, though known to be rich in deposits of gold, silver, iron, coal, copper and lead.

Since July 1, 1882, when the departure of the Indians first opened up this portion of the reservation to the white settler, there has been scarcely a day that has not witnessed the advent of some newcomer with his family and herds, and it is estimated that there is now within the borders of the county over 100,000 head of cattle There is still room for millions, and each new arrival is heartily greeted if he comes for the purpose of helping to develop the wonders of this wonderful locality.

The 400-acre tract, covering the springs and town site, is now owned by a strong company, of which James Cooper is president, D. C. Dodge, secretary and treasurer, and M. L. DeCoursey, general manager. These gentlemen have now taken the matter vigorously in hand, and will use their best efforts to make of the place the resort and sanitarium for which nature designed it. It may confidently be expected that the Eagle River branch of the Denver & Rio Grande railway, now temporarily halting at Red Cliff, will be speedily pushed down the Eagle at least as far as Glenwood Springs, 65 miles distant. The route was long ago surveyed and location made, and when the link between Red Cliff and Grand Junction shall be completed it will carry the bulk of the Utah and overland traffic. At present, Glenwood Springs is best reached via Crested Butte. A daily line of stages runs between the two points, a distance of 80 miles, carrying the traveler over Pearl Pass, via Ashcroft and Aspen and through some of the finest scenery in Colorado. At the end of the journey a brick hotel will be found, affording excellent accommodations.

Glenwood Springs has been made the county seat of Garfield county, and the United States land office has located there a register and receiver. Opportunity is therefore afforded of taking up much valuable agricultural, coal, mineral, timber, grazing and other lands in this region.

Republican State Convention.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
DENVER, August 5, 1884.

In pursuance of the action of the republican state central committee, a convention of the republican party of Colorado is hereby called to meet in Colorado Springs, September 10, at 11 a. m., to nominate candidates for the offices to be filled at the state election, to be held on Tuesday, the fourth day of next November, as follows:

The presidential electors, one representative in congress, one governor, one lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, auditor of state, superintendent of public instruction, two regents of the university for full terms, and one to fill the vacancy, one attorney general, a chairman of the state central committee, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the convention.

Precinct No. 16, Templeton's, 2 delegates.
Precinct No. 17, Franceville, 6 delegates.

The committee respectfully suggest that the several precincts hold their primaries on Wednesday, September 3d, 1884, at 2 o'clock p. m.

O. W. BARKER, Secretary.
JOHN CAMPBELL, Chairman.

The Tribune-Republican starts with the promise to do what it can to quell factional fights within the party. This is wise. It is the leading republican paper and should represent the party as a whole.

It is announced quite authoritatively that the Hon. Hugh J. Jewett will retire from the presidency of the Erie road at the next annual meeting in November. His original contract was for ten years' service and this ended in July. He retires because he has successfully managed his trust and wants a rest. The English committee that has been examining the condition of the road expresses itself as more than satisfied.

We publish elsewhere the call to the county convention. Abundant notice is given so that the matter can be carefully canvassed. The convention is an important one. It selects delegates to the state convention to nominate a state ticket. It also nominates two members of the lower house of the legislature who will vote for the next United States senator. The convention should be a thoroughly representative one and select only the best men for delegates to the state convention and representatives in the legislature.

There is a growing feeling that the interests of civil service reform demand the election of the republican candidates. This is the opinion of many who do full justice to Governor Cleveland's admirable administration in New York, and is not a mere partisan conviction. Among those who share it is President Andrew D. White of Cornell. The fact that he is so great an admirer of Governor Cleveland makes his opinion all the more forcible. In a letter to the Hon. Theodore D. Roosevelt, dated August 3, he gives the following reasons to show that the work of civil service reform must not be entrusted to the democratic party:

This, then, being the question of all questions, the essential preliminary of all reforms, I confess frankly that if, in my opinion, the democratic party were more likely than the republican to carry out the reforms already begun, I should not hesitate for a moment to vote the democratic ticket. But what are the probabilities—nay, the certainties in the case? I look at the democratic nominee and feel obliged to own that the administration of our state has been vastly to his credit, and that he might be personally relied upon to favor the national reforms as he has favored state reform. But the nominee is decidedly the less of the two important factors in the matter. The question is: What is the ground taken by the political party which would come into power with him? What can we expect from that? Now, if, we take out of the democratic party a handful of men, there is no one left from whom this great reform has anything to expect save bitter hostility.

Look at its history as a whole. It invented the spoils system, formulated it and evidently wishes for nothing better than to fully restore it. Look at its recent history. Take for example its treatment of Senator Pendleton. He had the wisdom and foresight to recognize the importance of inflicting a reform in the civil service, both as regards his country and his party. Straightway he was dragged through the mire by the leading democratic newspapers, deprived ignominiously of the senatorship, and replaced by a man infinitely his inferior in every statesmanlike quality, who made haste to jeer in the old state fashion at civil service reform. Nor did the democratic party of the nation treat Mr. Pendleton any better than that of his state had done. At their recent national convention the temporary chairman indulged in a fling at the reform, and the climax was reached when General Butler was allowed grossly to insult Mr. Pendleton on account of his connection with civil service reform, and to declare that not a person present who was not a schoolmaster approved it. This was received with universal applause, and with not a dissenting voice from the entire convention then or from the democratic press since.

More fatal still to all hopes of anything better from that party was the deliberate course of that convention in framing its platform. So far as this great subject was concerned it gave the candidate absolutely no plank to stand upon. The reference to it is not merely an evasion; it is as plain as they dared make it that means will be found to nullify what has been done and to restore the old system with all its infamies.

However much, then, I may respect Mr. Cleveland for what he has done as governor, I see no hope that he can have any similar career of reform as president. He cannot resist his entire party. They are "very hungry and very thirsty" with the hunger and thirst of twenty four years, and in case of victory no president without far greater support than he can hope for could resist their onset. To strengthen him at Albany there was a civil service element in our state of some value; but to support him at Washington that element, diluted or neutralized by the party in the whole nation, will be practically infinitesimal. At Albany he had backers in his party; at Washington he must stand virtually alone so far as his party is concerned. With all his good intentions he would be as powerless to resist the famished cohorts of plunder from east and west and south and north as the sturdiest hunter of the plains would be to withstand single and alone a rushing herd of wild buffaloes.

The letter concludes by giving many reasons why the republican party is more likely to make the needed reforms. The letter will carry great weight because from one of the most constant and prominent of the advocates of reform.

Judgment on a Hot Mexican Dish.

The Arkansas Traveller.

Some time ago Colonel Milbank visited Mexico, and upon returning, declared that the Mexicans are the only people who know how to cook. "Why," said he to his wife, "their dish of 'cheely' is excellent. You take a handful of bird peppers, mix in a little meat and stew 'em up. Of course, it's hot, and especially with a stranger, seems to be composed of three parts fire and one part torment; but after a man gets used to it, why there's nothing that has such a tendency to promote digestion. It undoubtedly prolongs life, keeps the mind active, and tends toward a general promotion of good feeling. I have brought home a sack of those peppers, and at every meal after this, I shall expect my favorite dish."

Bird peppers entered into the colonel's daily diet. No one thought of sharing the dish with him, until several days ago, when old Uncle Sam Blackmore, of Red Fork township, came to the city and called at the colonel's house. The old man while at dinner noticed the host dipping into what appeared to be cooked tomatoes, and during an animated discussion into which the subject of a literal place of torment in the world to come entered strongly, he reached over and helped himself to a spoonful of stewed pepper.

"Now," said the old fellow, lifting a good-sized blaze on the point of his knife, and holding it near his mouth until he should reach a semicolon, "I am a little quar in my belief and don't hesitate to say that the wicked will be roasted like a 'possum—"

He dropped the knife, wiped his tongue on his coat sleeve, and without speaking, he "hauled off" with a sauce bottle and knocked the colonel down. The colonel, being resentful and impetuous, arose and discouraged old Blackmore's familiarity by hurling his favorite dish into the visitor's frank and open countenance. A hand-to-hand encounter ensued, resulting in the defeat of the colonel and the subsequent arrest of the old man. The case was taken to court and tried by an eminent justice of the peace, a jurist whose idea of justice rarely meets with reversal, except when it chances to fall under the severe gaze of a judge who knows the law.

When the lawyers had closed their arguments, the old justice killed a horse fly with a paper cutter, and said:

"This court is ready to deliver its opinion. The court holds that the defendant had a right to visit the land of the Montezumas and Cortezes, and that while there had a perfect right to form a taste for the dishes prepared by the inhabitants of that country. This court furthermore holds that the defendant had a perfect right to prepare the dish and eat it under the American flag; in other words, he had a right to put it on his table."

"Then I understand," said the lawyer for the plaintiff, "that you have decided in our favor?"

"Just wait, if you please, until this court has concluded the decision. In order to be thoroughly prepared to judge the case wisely, this court ordered and tasted a sample of the stuff brought from the depraved land of the Montezumas, and this court is prepared to say that a man who wouldn't knock a fellow down for placing such a hidden mine of explosive compounds within his reach, ought to break out with the nettle-rash, and be deprived of the right of suffrage. This court would advise the plaintiff to keep out of the defendant's way, but will say that if the defendant don't catch him and maul the eternal pizen out of his disposition, he will lay himself liable to a fine and the odium of being considered a blamed fool by this court."

A Face of Gold

Cincinnati Sun,

A tall brunette, with a sea shell complexion, large black eyes, stately bearing, a Venus de Milo figure, and a No. 2 shoe that fell on the Arcade with a blithesome trend, was sweeping in the direction of Vine street, when a pretty blonde observed:

"That girl's complexion was saved by a miracle."

"Ah!"

"Yes. Call into 180 Race street. Don't say I told you, and you can find out the particulars."

Upon making inquiry at the designated number the following facts were gathered and vouched for: In the fall of November, 1876, Miss Martha Hospe, the only daughter of Mr. Hospe, of 180 Race street, and who was then taking music lessons on Fourth street, in passing to and from their home a few miles up the C. H. and D., contracted the small pox. The hideous disease soon made rapid inroads into the girl's system. Mr. Hospe's fears mounted to a high pitch, and the terrible thought of his daughter's face being pock-marked for life drove him almost into a frenzy. He had been pacing the sick chamber all one morning, watching the face of the delirious girl, and, just as the clock on the mantel piece struck 2, peered out of the window into the street. He looked again at the girl's face and shuddered. The afternoon was a raw one. Big leaden drops of a recent shower pattered from the leafless trees, and a choking yellow fog hung along the avenues. Without saying a word, he stepped softly out into the hall, left directions with a nurse, and came rapidly into Cincinnati. On reaching the city he made his way to a gold beater's in the neighborhood of Sixth and Vine, and purchased ten leaves of twenty eight carat gold leaf. An hour's ride brought him back again to the couch of his child. Taking the gold leaf he cut it into delicate strips and laid them over the features until the face was covered, save a small portion of the delicately carved lips and the eyes, and when the only solitary sunbeam struggled through that dark November day into that sick chamber, it fell upon a face of gold! Three days afterward Martin Beatty, a youthful lover of the girl from Walnut Hills called upon the sick girl and was permitted to pass through the sick chamber. The youthful lover threw but one look upon the face of gold, and in two weeks was down with small pox, and before another Sabbath's bells could call his soul to prayer, his ashes were sleeping under the soft mosses of Spring Grove.

"The gold peeled off of itself," remarked Mr. Hospe, and her face has never shown a scar since. I don't know that the gold leaf has any special curative properties, but I imagine that it had."

That there is a certain amount of novelty in the various suggestions here embodied will be admitted on the most cursory perusal."—From the preface.

THE STORY OF THE COUP D'ETAT. By M. de Maupas, Prefect of Police. One volume, 12mo, cloth, price $1.75.

"The author of the work was one of the leading actors, or rather managing directors, in the the coup d'etat which in December, 1852, placed Louis Napoleon on the throne of France. In order that he might more effectually assist in that desperate stroke, he was at his own request appointed to the prefecture of police. To him, therefore, fell the task of arranging for the arrest of such of the deputies as were likely to give trouble, and he relates with something like pride how perfectly he succeeded in accomplishing his purpose. The notes of the editor are judiciously interspersed, and are useful in recalling facts to which no more than passing allusion is made in the text."—The Bookseller.

MAUD HOWE'S NOVEL.

"The San Rosario Ranch!"

Third Thousand. $1.25.

This is an extract from the Boston Daily Advertiser's review, and there is no more able critical authority: "The 'San Rosario Ranch' belongs to a noble class of novels; it deals with the deepest feelings, the strongest emotions and the most powerful motives in human life. It is on a high plain, far above the petty strife, ambition and jealousy out of which 'society novels' are manufactured. The book is written in a spirit of large sympathy, and without one touch of censoriousness or ridicule. This sympathy is far-reaching; it is given to the Indian, driven from his mission; to the faithful Chinaman, killed by the fury of a white scoundrel; to the rich and coarse Irishman, living in splendor and in fear of his butler—of all of them some good is told; the best side is the one that is made prominent. The book is not a sermon, although its tone is so grave and its spirit so earnest; it is a good, warm love story, with plenty of life, of incident and of narrow escapes, and it is a very attractive picture of California life and California people."

In the County Court of said County, sitting for probate business.

The People of the State of Colorado send Greeting to Lemuel L. Hall, Augusta Hall, Talmadge Parsons, Joseph Wood, Caroline Parsons, Alice A. Babcock and Loy I Parsons.

Whereas, an instrument in writing purporting to be the last will and testament of Caroline Parsons, late of said county, deceased, has been presented by Matthew Kennedy of Colorado Springs, Colorado, to the county court of said county for probate, and the 25th day of August, 1884, has been set for hearing the application for the probate of said instrument as the said last will and testament of said Caroline Parsons, deceased; and, whereas, it appears from said instrument, and other satisfactory evidence, that said deceased died seized and possessed of real and personal estate in this state, and that you, Lemuel L. Hall and Augusta Hall are named as executors of the said will, and you, the other above named persons, are heirs at law of said deceased, therefore, you are hereby notified to be and appear before the county court of El Paso county, at the court house in Colorado Springs, on the 25th day of August, 1884, then and there to attend the probate of said will, before said court; and further to do and perform what shall then, by the said court, be required and adjudged.

Witness E. A. Colburn, judge of said county court, and the seal thereof, at Colorado Springs, in said county, this 30th day of June, A. D. 1884.

A Minister's Mad Act.

CHICAGO, August 12.—Information is just received from the northern suburb of Lake View that Rev. H M Collison, pastor of the Fullerton Avenue Presbyterian church, shot his wife and then himself this afternoon. The ball entered the wife's head back of the ear, killing her instantly. He aimed at his own temple, but hit rather low the bullet going below the brain back of the eyes, passing almost through and cutting both optic nerves He is still alive though the chances are against his recovery. If he survives he will be totally blind There was no quarrel. Rev. Collison became pastor of this church four years ago, but dissension arose on account of the pastor's extreme Calvinism and the membership divided until last June, when he tendered his resignation to take effect this month. Neighbors have noticed of late that he has shown signs of wandering mind It is believed he brooded over his church troubles and seeing but poor prospect for the future determined, in a fit of momentary insanity, to end the troubles of himself and wife. They leave small children unprovided for Murdered by a Maniac.

CHICAGO, August 12 -A Daily News Springfield, Ills, special says: In west Springfield to-day Thomas Henchie, recently released from an insane asylum, climbed into a wagon in which were three farmers, threw an arm around Julius Perkins' neck and drew a large knife twice across his throat. Perkins fell out of the wagon and the maniac pounced upon John Collins in a similar manner, inflicting a less severe wound in his throat, when he also fell out of the wagon Collins' father jumped out just in time to escape the murderous knife The maniac laid whip to the team, and though a sheriff and posse started in pursuit, nothing could be seen of him. Perkins will probably die.

"THE USURPER!"

An Episode in Japanese History.

A Romance Translated from the French of Judith Gautier by Abby L Alger. $1 50.

R H Stoddard, the poet, writes of the "Usurper" "It is a romance in the best sense of the word There is nothing in English fiction with which we can compare a romance like this unless it be Scott's 'Ivanhoe' We do not propose to tell, even to indicate, the story of this romance, which is well conceived, shapely in its parts and consistent as a whole, not to hint at the personality of the different characters, two of which are as noble as they are beautiful, all that we propose to do is simply to say Here is a prose poem of the Japan of A D. 1615. It represents the life and manners of that country at that time—the splendid, strong life and the barbaric manners—and so represents them that they pass before the imagination like a gorgeous pageant a pageant the picturesqueness of which recalls its only parallel in modern fiction—the background of George Ebers's 'Daughter of an Egyptian King' If Mlle Gautier is not a woman of genius she is nothing"

UNIVERSAL HISTORY. The Oldest Historical Group of Nations and the Greeks. By Leopold von Ranke Edited by G. W. Prothero 8vo, cloth, $4 50

THE RIVER CONGO From its mouth to Bolobo With a General Description of the Natural History and Anthropology of its Western Basin. By H H Johnston. 8vo cloth, $7 00.

"No quarter of the globe surpasses Central Asia in present interest, and Mr H H Johnston has written an instructive account of his careful exploration of the river Congo from its mouth to Bolobo. He writes as a traveler, as an artist, and as a naturalist, and gives encouraging pictures of the development of a very wonderful region "—[Literary World.

WICLIF AND HUS. By Dr. Loserth. Translated by the Rev. M. J. Evans, B. A Crown 8 vo, $2 50.

"The connection between Hus and Wiclif has, thanks to Dr. Loserth, now been thoroughly investigated. The result of such a study of the works of Hus and Wiclif as that undertaken by Dr. Loserth goes far toward showing that the movement started by Wiclif never ceased till it culminated in the Diet of Worms."—[Academy.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

TO THE

Constitution of the State of Colorado.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Is hereby given that at the general election to be held in the several wards and precincts of this state on the fourth (4) day of November, A D 1884 and pursuant to the provisions of an act of the general assembly of the state of Colorado, passed at the fourth session thereof, being an act entitled

"An act to submit to the qualified electors of the state of Colorado amendments to sections six (6) nineteen (19), and twenty-two (22), of article five (5) of the constitution of the state of Colorado, concerning legislative department Approved February 11, 1884. The following proposed amendments to the constitution of the state of Colorado will be submitted to the qualified electors of said state for their approval or rejection which when ratified by a majority of those voting thereon shall be valid as a part of the constitution of said state that is to say: Section six (6) of article five (5) of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended so as to read as follows, to wit

"SECTION 6 —Each member of the general assembly, until otherwise provided by law, shall receive, as compensation for his services, seven dollars ($7 00) for each day's attendance and fifteen (15) cents for each mile necessarily traveled in going to and returning from the seat of government, and shall receive no other compensation perquisite, or allowance whatsoever, No session of the general assembly shall exceed ninety days No general assembly shall fix its own compensation "

Section nineteen (19) of article five (5), of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended so as to read as follows, to-wit

"SECTION 19—No act of the general assembly shall take effect until ninety days after its passage, (except in case of emergency which shall be expressed in the act) unless the general assembly shall by a vote of two thirds of all the members elected to each house otherwise direct No bill except the general appropriation bill for the expenses of the government only introduced in either house of the general assembly after the first thirty days of the session shall become a law "

"Section twenty two (22), of said article five (5), of the constitution of the state of Colorado shall be amended so as to read as follows to wit "

"SECTION 22 —Every bill shall be read by title when introduced and at length on two different days in each house all substantial amendments made thereto shall be printed for the use of the members before the vote is taken on the bill and no bill shall become a law except by a vote of a majority of all the members elected to each house, nor unless on its final passage the vote be taken by ayes and noes and the names of those voting be entered on the journal "

"And by said act submitting said amendments it is further provided that"

"Each elector voting at said election and desirous of voting for or against all of the amendments as a whole, shall deposit in the ballot box a ticket whereon shall be written or printed the words, 'For the amendments, or the words, 'Against the amendments Any such elector not desirous of voting as aforesaid may express his approval or rejection of any one or more of said amendments as in the other case, Provided, that he shall designate any amendment so approved or rejected by him, by number in the order in which it occurs in this act, ' and that the votes cast for the adoption or rejection of said amendments or of either of them shall be canvassed and the result determined in the manner provided by the laws of the state for the canvass of votes for representative in congress

[SEAL] In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the great seal of the state of Colorado, at Denver in said state, this First day of August, A D 1884

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO'S

NEW BOOKS

A COUNTRY DOCTOR A novel, By Sarah Orne Jewett, author of "Deephaven," "Country By Ways," etc. 16mo, $1.25,

In this novel Miss Jewett uses on a larger scene and with increased effect the qualities which have made her short stories so popular and so thoroughly delightful A woman physician figures in it, but the story is quite unlike the novels by Mr. Howells and Miss Phelps in which women physicians are the heroines It gives wonderfully accurate pictures of New England characters, customs and scenery; the heroine is "one of our girls" and as such will charm readers as few heroines do in current novels. The freshness, the sincerity, the helpful sympathy, which render Miss Jewett's stories at once so attractive and wholesome, pervade "A Country Doctor," and can hardly fail to make it one of the most widely popular and welcome of this summer's novels.

THE FATE OF MANSFIELD HUMPHREYS. With the Episode of Mr Washington Adams in England, and an Apology. By Richard Grant White. 16mo, $1 25.

This is one of the most entertaining of "international" books, in which the mutual misconceptions and prejudices of Englishmen and Americans are developed and illustrated.

PHŒBE. A Novel. By the author of "Rutledge." 16mo, $1.25.

An American story in character and incidents, told with so much life and spirit that it will be hailed as a special boon by novel readers To a multitude looking for summer reading, this story needs no other recommendation than that it is by the author of "Rutledge"

THE AMERICAN HORSEWOMAN By Elizabeth Karr. Illustrated, 12mo, $2 00.

An admirably practical book The selection and management of a horse, all the details of equipment, every separate article of dress that the rider should wear, and the making of it—all these are described specifically, and the book is made still more useful by illustrative cuts, the whole forming a manual of great value to any lady who would become thoroughly skillful in the equestrienne art.

SUMMER. From the Journals of H D Thoreau, author of "Walden," "Cape Cod," etc. Edited by H. G. O Blake. With a map of Concord 12mo, gilt top, $1 50.

This book comprises selections from Thoreau's Journals containing observations and reflections during the summers of many years. Some of these are descriptive, with that fine photographic accuracy which marks Thoreau's picture's of natural scenes Other passages contain those subtle reflections on society, religion, laws, literature, which also characterize whatever Thoreau wrote, and which pique the curiosity and stimulate the minds of his readers

"I. A. I."

A NOVEL PRICE $1 50.

BY WM. A. HAMMOND, M.D.

Dr. Hammond, the well known medical scientist, has entered the field of fiction, and with marked success His novel is fresh and original in matter, and in style both graceful and forcible. It deals almost altogether with life in Colorado "Isa," the crude and untrained heroine, is a fine creature, consistently worked out. She is well contrasted with Theodora Willis, a type of the highly cultivated intellectual woman, who is the excuse for the introduction of many of Dr Hammond's theories relative to the higher education of women. The book as a whole is a notable addition to the literature of fiction. It has a good plot well developed, its characters are strong and picturesque, and the descriptive portions are at times remarkably fine.

Several copies of this novel will be received Monday, August 18, for the Circulating Library.
